ABOUT THE COLLEGE

The Silapathar College was established in 1979 as a result of concerted efforts made by generous local public who were led by a group of academically ambitious leaders. It is the second oldest college in the district of Dhemaji. The history of establishment of institutions for higher learning in the district of Dhemaji, in fact, began with the inception of Dhemaji College followed by Silapathar College. It is located in the heart of the rapidly growing small commercial township of Silapathar which is surrounded by mostly tribal village communities. Thus, the college pledges to underline its target groups at the youth belonging to economically poor and socially excluded sections of the society. Established with the goal of spreading the web of higher education in geographically northern Assam, it has been endlessly attempting to provide quality education to the young generation. The college believes that the need of the hour is creating human resource that is able to keep track with latest developments in academics by developing a humanitarian outlook as well. It understands that the major life blood of any educational institution is the teaching-learning process. Without dedicated and well trained teachers and enthusiastic students, the process can never be interesting and fruitful.

The institution is permanently affiliated to the Dibrugarh University. It was brought under deficit system of grant-in-aid in 1992 and was subsequently provincialized in 2005 by the Government of Assam. The college registered under 2(f) and 12(b) of UGC Act 1956 was recently accredited with 'B++' Grade within (CGPA) 2.98 by NAAC in 2023.

About the Seminar

The North Eastern region of India is a quagmire of crises from early to contemporary times. But its significance lies in its unique flora and fauna, thriving culture of over 200 tribes forming a mini India. This diversity offers wellness and eco-tourism which aligns with the country's "Heal in India" mission. Rich in natural resources, the region accounts for about 34% of the country's water resources and almost 40% of India's hydropower with Sikkim being the country's first organic state. It is a strategic gateway to neighboring countries.

Standing in the threshold of the centenary year of India's independence, the central government's announcement of Viksit Bharat vision changed its 'Look East' policy to 'Act East, 'Act Fast' and 'Act First' policy. Mega projects were granted to every North eastern state, the Rising Northeast Investors Summit 2025 organized by the Ministry of Development of North Eastern Region (MDoNER), was convened in New Delhi to attract global and domestic investors on different sectors for developing the region, resulting in proposals for ₹4.3 lakh crore from different sources.

But can the Northeast make it? Many remote regions like the Jinam Valley area of North Cachar Hills/Dima Hasao district of Assam are still deprived of basic necessities like electricity, health centres, Higher Secondary Schools etc. Though very alluring, achieving Viksit Bharat requires a localized, grassroots approach involving more than top-down policies or large-scale infrastructure revolution. It demands a bottom-up strategy with comprehensive approach like region-led development where locals have a share in the planning and implementation process without which, we may recreate the India of pre-independence era.

This seminar therefore, intends to draw out prospects, issues/challenges, local leadership through discussions and offer remedies on how best Northeast problems can be tackled through inclusivity without which, the vision of Viksit Bharat would merely be a litmus test for the country's inclusive and sustainable development. In short, the seminar aims at including local people as the voice of the periphery in the creation of Viksit Uttar Purv.
